

Disclaimer

Puppet Anthems © exists as an edutainment tool, for learning in a fresh way about the national anthems, histories and cultures of a selection of the world's countries. These anthems are presented to be sung and studied. Some lyrics are full of praise, whilst others have references to violent battles. That is history, but regardless of the stories within, we have compiled these anthems in a way that focuses on creating better cross-cultural understanding and supporting peaceful knowledge. It's our way of promoting knowledge about cultures and through our icons, knowledge of the origins of shared things we use in our lives.

In doing so, the authors of Puppet Anthems © aim to accurately, fairly and positively present an individual country's national anthem and cultural icons in an entertaining, inoffensive and non-political manner. Puppet Anthems © is an ongoing project and the non-inclusion of any particular country is purely time-conditional and/or project based, and not an expression of our political leanings.

Specifically, all countries presented in this edition of Puppet Anthems © are participating in the 2014 Football World Cup. All included game material has been carefully considered and all effort has been made by the developers to source accurate information from reputable online and first-hand sources. All measures have been taken with regards to content of all kinds, to present a professional-level edutainment app able to be enjoyed and used by people of all ages without discrimination. The animations of each puppet are designed with a certain degree of artistic license and flexibility. All characters on stage are fictional. Any resemblance between the characters on stage and any real life person is purely coincidental. The voices of each puppet are an attempt to portray an appropriately-sounding match to each character.

Any possible offense caused to any viewer by any of the contents of this app are purely viewer subjective and not the intention nor responsibility of the developers. Puppet Anthems © will attempt to correct erroneous game material related to icons should we feel that any new source material accurately reflects the need to do so. Puppet Anthems © does not however warrant or assume any legal liability or responsibility whatsoever in regards to, or in respect of, anything including but not limited to information or statements available within this app or to any sites that are, or may be in the future, linked to this app.

In nearly all cases, anthems are available in the public domain and can be used if done so in good faith, as is the intention with Puppet Anthems ©. On the few occasions when the use of an anthem is not possible for legal reasons, we still reserve the right to include any country in our app, even if only a partial representation of associated material can be presented. These anthems will be clearly marked on the main menu. Should the status of any anthem change, restricted or otherwise, then we shall update accordingly.

This app does not store user information at all. Furthermore, all professional effort has been utilized to create a safe and functional app. However, Puppet Anthems © will not be held responsible for any hacking attempt or system failure that may lead to the malfunction of this app or failure of any device on which it is played.

All attempts are made to respect the integrity of each national anthem and to present them in their entirety when possible and in the best possible manner. However, due to the lengths of certain anthems, and with a small degree of musical creativity, we reserve the right to alter any anthem's length in order to fit within the parameters of the animation. All singers have been engaged and compensated on a mutually-agreed basis with clear understanding of the educational focus of this app.

The makers of Puppet Anthems © wish to also acknowledge the efforts of the authors of www.nationalanthems.info and for the use of the orchestral versions from their site, distributed freely under a Creative Commons Attribution 3.0 License agreement and used as the basis for much of the music compositions presented within this app. Furthermore, we acknowledge the legal use of all fonts presented in the app.

Copyright

The developers of the app own all original material presented within it, specifically animations, supporting music files, the idea, layout, content and format, which are subject to copyright laws. Any copying of material or ideas contained within, partly or in full, without consent, will constitute a breach of copyright laws.

Customer Usage Policy

Puppet Anthems © is an educational and entertainment tool and we've aimed to make it accessible as shared fun. We hope you agree and that by entering this site, you agree to view it in good faith, with a knowledge of the parameters laid out in this disclaimer. You are of course very welcome to tell your friends about us!